Animals Welfare Programme

Youth Rural Development Trust has worked for dogs for a very long, Dogs can't describe their feeling to someone, and dogs can't speak but they can understand everything We can't understand what exactly dogs feel like but we can provide them some basic facilities like food, clothes, and shelter for them. so our organization helped street or needy dogs or other animals. we gave them food and established dog shelters at various places so they could live peacefully, and also the organization provided medical facilities to needy or injured dogs and treat them very well.

Road Safety Programme

Youth Rural Development Trust an event focused on road safety to disseminate information to uninformed individuals lacking awareness about road safety. Our organization's representatives delivered talks to both adults and children, conveying the message that drinking and driving as well as disregarding red traffic signals are against the law.

Environment Programme

Our survival is reliant on a clean and fresh environment, making it our duty to ensure the cleanliness and sustainability of our surroundings. The organization took the initiative to enlighten people about the value of nature and the act of planting trees. Additionally, we aimed to raise awareness about the detrimental impact of pollution on human health, emphasizing trees as a crucial and effective remedy.

Women Empowerment & Training Programme

To foster equity within society, the subject of enhancing the empowerment of women in rural areas, particularly Anganwadi workers, was deliberated upon through an online webinar. During the webinar, education was highlighted as a crucial factor in achieving gender parity. Within this context, there was unanimous support for providing mandatory educational opportunities to every girl child, enabling their advancement. Additionally, it was proposed that social workers receive not only education but also training in self-defense, equipping them to tackle challenges effectively. The education of daughters and women is imperative for the progress of both society and the nation.

Old Age Home Welfare Programme

Youth Rural Development Trust is dedicated to enhancing the lives of senior citizens by running an old age home that goes beyond just providing shelter. In our old age home, we prioritize the physical, emotional, and social well-being of our elderly residents. We believe that good nutrition is fundamental to maintaining the health and vitality of our senior citizens. To this end, we provide three balanced and nutritious meals a day, catering to their dietary preferences and any special dietary requirements. Our goal is to ensure that they receive the nourishment they need to stay healthy. Our old age home is equipped with a medical clinic or has arrangements with nearby healthcare facilities to provide immediate medical attention when needed.

In conclusion - Youth Rural Development Trust's old age home is more than just a place to stay; it is a caring community that prioritizes the holistic well-being of our elderly residents. Our commitment to providing quality care, nutritious meals, social engagement, and emotional support ensures that our senior citizens enjoy their golden years in comfort and dignity.

Nasha Mukta Gramin Jagat Programme

Trust initiates diverse awareness initiatives that have the effect of raising public awareness about the adverse impacts of drug use. These programs are systematically conducted throughout the year, targeting the local community residents, individuals grappling with drug addiction, and even vehicle operators. These efforts are aimed at curbing the rapid proliferation of drugs in both urban and rural regions.

DRUGS

Handicapped Programmed

The Trust, in collaboration with a capable organization, conducted a comprehensive survey of individuals with disabilities in both Jaipur and Karauli. This initiative aimed to empower them with economic and educational opportunities, while also raising awareness about the government's support services available to the disabled community. Through guidance and motivation, the Trust encouraged these individuals to become self-reliant and actively participate in society. This effort resulted in many disabled individuals obtaining official disability certificates. Furthermore, to enhance their self-sufficiency, the Trust established an incense stick packing center in Mehandipur Balaji, offering employment opportunities to disabled individuals. In its future plans, the Trust envisions opening residential schools for disabled individuals to provide them with education and support. Additionally, the Trust successfully engaged with E-Mitra operators in Karauli district, persuading them to provide free services related to disabilities, an initiative that received widespread support. In every possible way, the Trust is dedicated to empowering and enabling the disabled community.

Indra Rasoī Yojna

The "Indra Rasoī Yojna" is a government initiative implemented in the Indian state of Rajasthan with the primary goal of offering economical and nourishing meals to the underprivileged and marginalized segments of society. Through this scheme, subsidized meals are made available at dedicated Indra Rasoī centers, commonly referred to as community kitchens, ensuring that individuals, particularly those grappling with economic challenges, can access wholesome food at an affordable cost, with Youth Rural Development Trust actively participating by providing meals for just Rs 8/-. This program is strategically crafted to address food security concerns and alleviate hunger among vulnerable populations, effectively serving as a social safety net and significantly contributing to the well-being of disadvantaged communities by granting them access to cost-effective and nutritious sustenance.
